

Billy Crystal returns to the role of Buddy Young, Jr., in MR. SATURDAY NIGHT on Broadway, a role he portrayed in the original 1992 film of the same name.

An outrageous and outspoken comedian, Buddy Young, Jr. found fame, if not fortune, in the early days of television. Now, many years after his TV career fizzled out, he seeks one more shot at the spotlight and, while he's at it, one last shot at fixing the family he fractured along the way.

Billy Crystal is joined by Tony Award® winner Randy Graff (City of Angels; Les Misérables), Academy Award nominee David Paymer (Mr. Saturday Night film; City Slickers; tv's Mrs. Maisel) and Soshana Bean (Hairspray; Wicked; Waitress).

Written by Billy Crystal, Lowell Ganz and Babaloo Mandel, based on an original concept by Billy Crystal, this new musical about one comedian's dazzling rise to the middle features music by Tony Award® winner Jason Robert Brown (The Bridges of Madison County; Parade), lyrics by Tony nominee Amanda Green (Hands on a Hardbody), choreography by Ellenore Scott (Funny Girl; Little Shop of Horrors) and direction by Tony winner John Rando (Urinetown; On the Town).
