

TRAVESTIES

Direct from a smash engagement at London's Menier Chocolate Factory and the West End comes TRAVESTIES, the 1976 Tony Award winner for Best Play. Tom Stoppard's drama returns to Broadway in a "near-miraculous production" of "mind-bending splendor" (The New York Times) in which an artist, a writer and a revolutionary collide in a kaleidoscopic thrill-ride that's "wickedly playful, intensely entertaining, infectiously theatrical" (Time Out London).

Patrick Marber (Closer) directs a cast led by 2017 Olivier nominee Tom Hollander (BBC's "The Night Manager"). Hollander plays Henry Carr, a man losing his memory, whose life interacts with three significant personalities living in Zürich at the same time – author James Joyce, artist Tristan Tzara and Russian communist revolutionary Vladimir Lenin.

Experience London's "mind-bogglingly entertaining revival" (The Telegraph) of this adventure through the worlds of art and revolution in 1917 Switzerland...and in the maze of one man's memory.
